Remember the 4th grade
Christina May

Our total experience at Northern is a preparation for the future. Some of us prepare for college, some of us prepare for an occupation, but all of us prepare to live in a somewhat uncertain world. Through our studies we learn about the past, the present, the far away, the practical, and the fascinating. Through the friendships we make we learn about people, about human relationships, about individuals. Through extracurricular activities we learn how to have fun, how to enjoy education, and how to participate. Nearly everything we do is done with the future in mind.

For this reason the annual staff thought it would be most appropriate to use this idea--the idea of preparation--as the theme for our 1966 POLARIS. We will all remember 1966 as a year when everyone at Northern stopped to take a look at the school and at themselves. Re-evaluation definitely pervaded the school year. Everyone tried to determine just how well Northern prepared her students for the future. Faculty and students alike felt the effects of the lengthy reports, the visiting committees, the thorough analysis of everything.

Perhaps the most valuable product of this self-evaluation was the Philosophy of Northern High School. The Philosophy was initially drawn up by a faculty committee in the spring of 1965. After constant re-writing and re-phrasing, this committee produced a document which expressed the purposes and the methods of education at Northern.

It seemed only natural that we on the annual staff should use this Philosophy in illustrating our theme of preparation, for the ideas that it embodies have guided us--directly or indirectly--in every facet of our school life. Therefore, we have quoted excerpts from the Philosophy throughout the book--to emphasize our theme, to help you recall the year, and to make you think.

I hope you will enjoy your 1966 POLARIS and treasure the Philosophy it contains.

MISS VERTEE UMSTEAD

Miss Vertee Umstead came to Northern as a charter teacher and remained to become a vital part of the faculty and the life of each student. Therefore, it was not unexpected when she endeared herself to the Class of '66. The zeal with which she taught was reflected in other areas of school life. The lights in W-6 shone long into the afternoon as she advised the Student Council and Interclub Council during their meetings.

Miss Umstead prepares chemistry students for college and nursing careers.

Laris to Miss Umstead

In the spring of each year, Miss Umstead pushed the Junior-Senior Prom toward completion by supervising and working in the fire-proofing of the blue canopy. She often sacrificed her free periods to give her chemistry students personal attention. Because of her concern for Northern and enthusiasm in her profession, Miss Umstead instilled a love of learning in her students and they responded with genuine admiration and respect for her.

Despite the broken arm, a result of her enthusiasm as a cheerleader in the Student-Faculty Game, Miss Umstead directed the efforts of over 50 juniors in fireproofing the canopy for the '65 Junior-Senior Prom.

Principal

MR. DAVID POE

The year has been one of transition for everyone at Northern, and because of this change, Mr. Poe has had great responsibilities. As the complexity of re-evaluation plagued both students and teachers, our principal had the tremendous obligation of meeting evaluators, planning schedules and, at the same time, running the school efficiently. In addition to these taxing problems, he has found the time to show a genuine interest in the individual student and his progress. Mr. Poe, also attended each athletic event and supported all co-curricular activities. By persuading and encouraging students to do their best, he raised the academic level of the school. The entire student body respected and admired Mr. Poe for his leadership and thoughtful interest.

MR. DALE E. GADDY

Assistant Principal

To lighten the many burdens of Mr. Poe was the duty of Northern's Assistant Principal, Dale Gaddy. During his first year at the school he was in charge of the bus drivers and the lockers and often the absentee notes. Also, Mr. Gaddy taught classes of U.S. History and Government. Under the extra load of re-evaluation, the assistant principal proved his ability to serve in a capacity of leadership and great responsibility.

Last year was no different than any year as far as popularity for Northern's library was concerned. Every period students could be seen taking advantage of the wide range of materials found in the library. The fine reference books were constantly employed by different persons working at one of the tables. Several times whole classes came in either to do research or to be lectured by Mrs. Crabtree on various aspects of the library.

Miss Bordeaux Counsels Students

That mystic realm called The Future was enlightened for many Northerners by Miss Bordeaux and her guidance department. She gave and interpreted strange, often frightening abbreviated tests (PSAT, SAT, NEDT) for hundreds of students this year. Somehow, Miss Bordeaux found time to give each Senior special attention so that he understood what he could best do after graduation and how to accomplish it. In addition to simply talking with each student, she had the tremendous responsibility of sending transcripts, recommendations and applications for most of the 217 seniors. The warm smile, peppy voice and much needed encouragement would always be with Northern's graduates as they went about their chosen vocations.

English Department Views World Through Books

Miss Blackley directs her sophomores toward the proper manner of writing short stories.

Juniors of the English A program had an intensive study of American Literature.

Senior English students were often allowed to create themes based on their personal experiences.

The art of communication was of utmost importance in the English Department this year. While sophomores learned to employ proper grammar in their writing, and juniors studied the literature of their country, Northern's seniors began to combine their English knowledge with an extensive study of the literature of England and their plans for a vocation. During the years of English classes students little realized the value of their courses in the future.

World Literature students enjoyed an atmosphere of vibrant discussion.

Social Studies Inform Students

Mr. Martin points out territorial advances in his U.S. History classes.

"Give me liberty or give me death," "We the people of the United States of America in order to form a more perfect Union..." and 'Forescore and seven years ago . . . ' are well known phrases to Northern's many social studies students. Since the Social Studies Department is large and a great variety of courses are offered, all Northern students come under the influence of either World History, American History, International Relations or World Geography. While these courses require much time, thought and attention, the rewards gained from them are realized throughout life.

One of the favorite moments of International Relations is the student's report.

One of the skills acquired in biology is the correct use of the microscope.

The Science Department interested the students in the development of the fast advancing world of science. Students learned and experimented with scientific advancements, thus, discovering how they could be used in everyday life. Sophomores were fascinated by the dissection of worms, frogs and pigs; juniors struggled through the molecular formulas of chemistry; and seniors enjoyed the diversified experiments in physics.

Senior Science students Gerald Brown, Gail Peeler and Beverly Tilley study various types of glass.

Math 240

The curriculum of Northern's Math Department through its varied courses provided thorough training in all areas of Mathematics. One such course was Math 240 offered for the first time this year. It consisted of Algebra III, trigonometry, solid geometry, and elementary analysis. Most of the math being on the college level provided a "head start" for those who planned to continue their academic education after graduation.

Sylvia Leaver, Steve Morgan and Eddie Browning examine various geometric structures.

In the new course Math 240, Larry Horton, Howard Lipton and Lorraine graph a trigonometric function.

"J'entre dans la salle de class," " Como esta usted?" "Omnia Gallia divisa est . . . are familiar expressions to the many Northern students engaged in the art of learning a language. Work! Work! Work are the passwords of all language students. Whether it's memorizing vocabulary words, engaging in oral recitation, or straining the ears in an attempt to perceive sound from the language laboratory, all language students agree that much fun accompanies the work. On one occasion this year, this fun took the form of television. In January, eighty-five French and Spanish students planned, studied, rehearsed, and presented a short television program.

The girls try hard to find excitement and fun in the exercises that they do in order to promote better physical health.

"One, two, three, four" was the sound which the physical education classes heard everyday at Northern. The push-ups, sit-ups, running, and jumping contributed to the overall health of the students. Such sports as basketball, volleyball and baseball made the exercises seem worthwhile. After all the activity, students had a feeling of achievement.

These boys find excitement, exercise and fun in their daily volleyball games at which they practically became experts.

Office Staff Is Vital to School

MRS. ODILE F. RIGGS, Secretary

Mrs. Riggs, our office secretary, had many diversified duties. These responsibilities included handling all money for the school, making appointments for Mr. Poe, and recording absences.

The office staff, composed of volunteers from the student body, formed one of the most active parts of Northern. The group was faced with the daily role of stenciling, typing, filing, and running errands.

Cafeteria Staff Prepares Balanced Meals

Without the work done by the cafeteria staff, the school day would have been much less enjoyable for the students and, sometimes, almost painful. The preparation and serving of meals for over eight hundred students and teachers was an exhausting task but these ladies, under the supervision of Mrs. Crabtree, always presented well-balanced, delicious lunches.

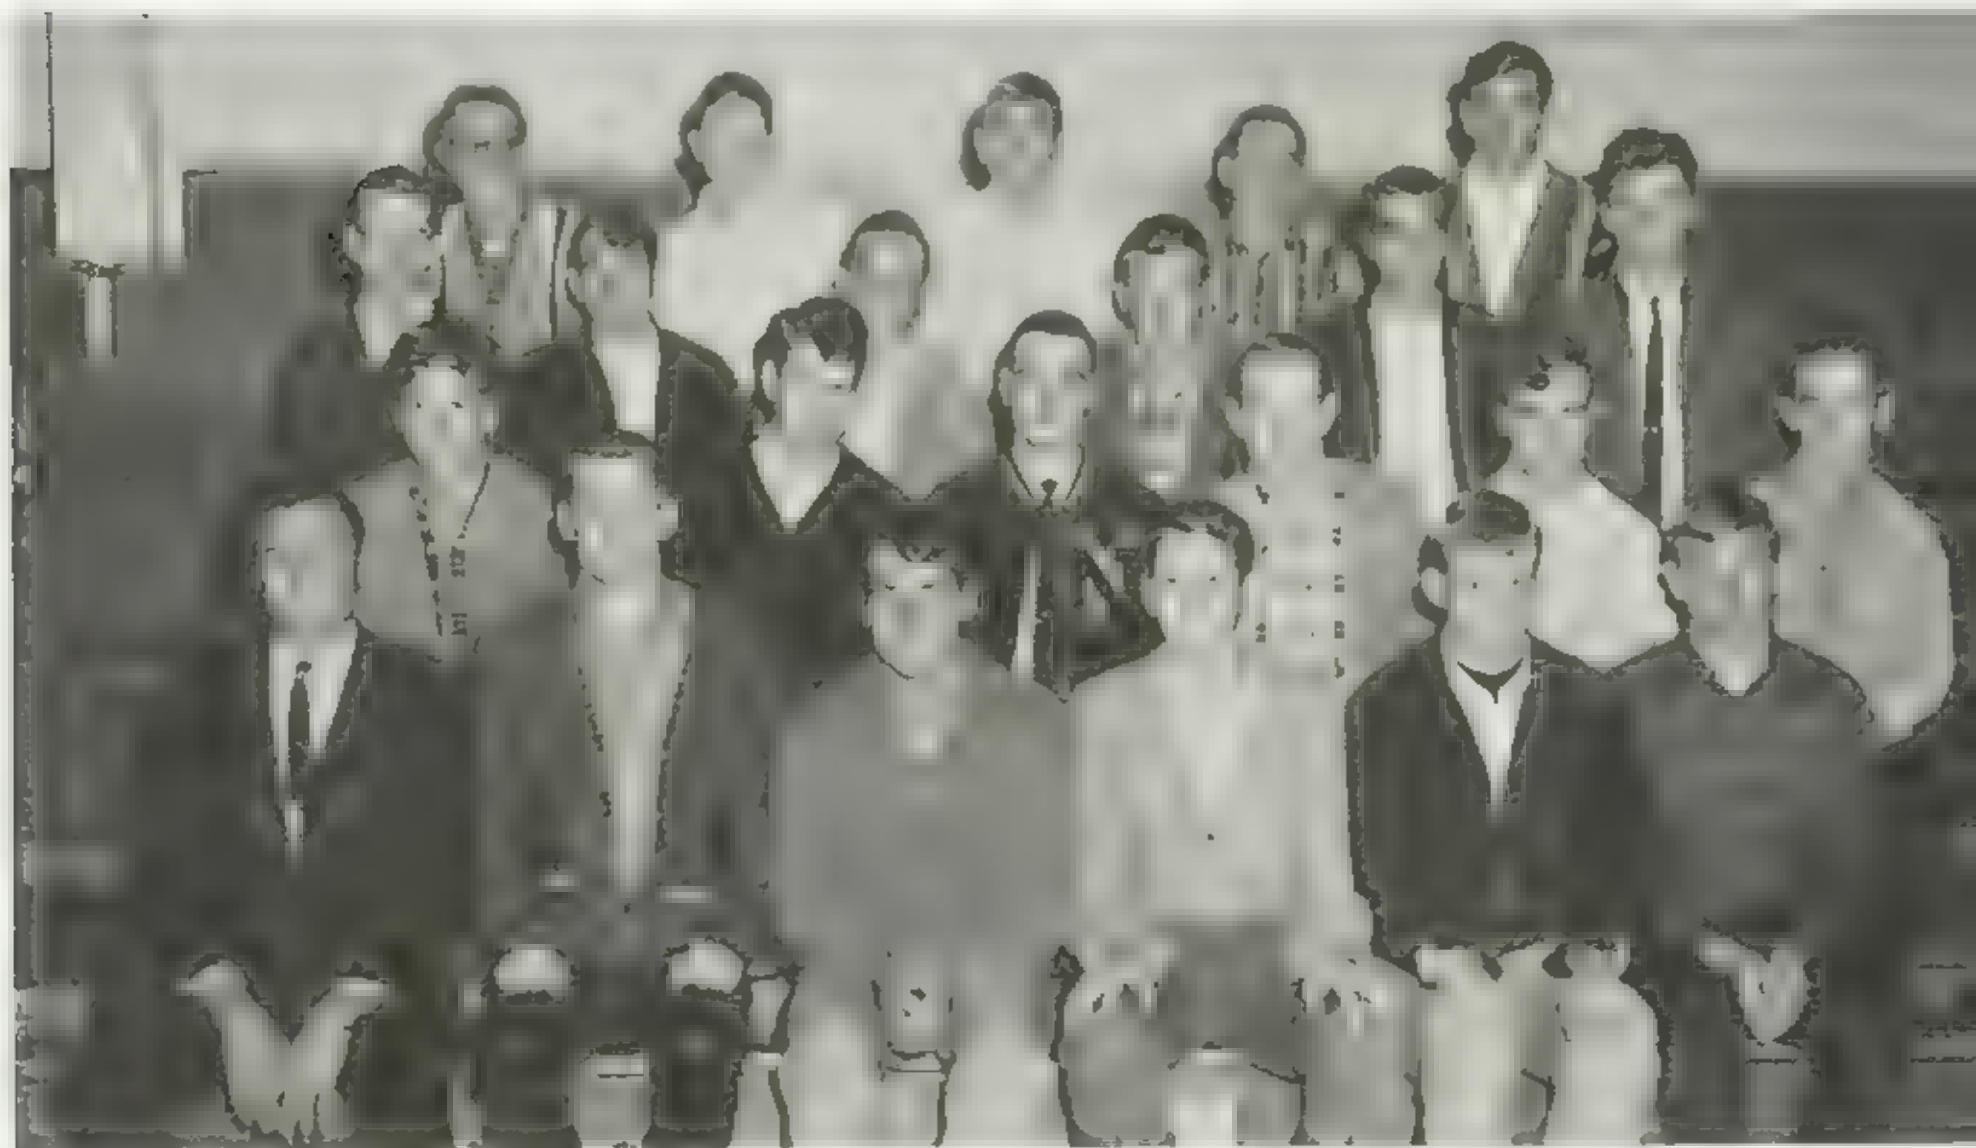

Sophomores enjoy their lunches.

Bus Drivers Have Great Responsibility

Before most Northerners thought of getting dressed or even getting out of bed on school mornings, the bus drivers were up preparing for their laborious journey. In addition to the responsibility for the safety of fifty or more youngsters, they often had to act as sole disciplinarian for these students. The maturity, common sense, and service of the bus drivers were necessary to many students - few of whom took the time to appreciate this.

Students wait impatiently to climb into the buses in the mad scramble at the end of the day.

Clarence, Sam, and Clara have been most patient and industrious in keeping our school clean, and working long hours that our school might be warm in the winter. We often take them for granted, but in spite of this we appreciate their work.

Clarence Roberts, Sam Moore, Clara Riley

Custodians Keep School in Good Condition

Long after everyone else had left, the custodians continued to work for the betterment of the school.

We recognize the inevitable necessity of challenge in advancing the whole child and further recognize the varying abilities, interests and needs of our students.

The methods of instruction should be varied to offer each student instruction which is appropriate and stimulating.

Very young, a little timid and quite uncertain, the Class of '66 first entered the halls of Northern. Four years later, not quite as young, hardly timid, but still uncertain about the future, the seniors prepared to make this final exit from their school. They were quite sure that such expressions as "Where's E-7", "Dissect what", "Tahitian Twilight", and "Miss Bordeaux, I have a little problem", would always remind them of their years at Northern. The senior year really began when they received the traditionally blue-stoned class rings and, soon afterward, saw the Class of '66 marching from the field after graduation. The Seniors had a year filled with exciting athletics as, with a Vamonos, Vamonos, Vamonos, they cheered their football team to the greatest season of victories in the school's history. Always supporting Northern, the senior class won the Student Council Fund Drive and led all club activities to greater production and achievement. Classes seemed, perhaps, a little more difficult to seniors but such things as Math 342, physics, and World Literature were still part of the wonderful year. When students began receiving job offers they realized the time for leaving Northern was drawing near. But the seniors knew that the brevity of those four years would stretch into a lifetime of memories.

In Memoriam

James Louis Hill, Jr.

The memory of Jimmy Hill will always live in the hearts and minds of his classmates and friends. His shy smile and quiet manner spread warmth and friendliness to all he met. He was one of us for only a short time but he will be remembered forever.

Student Body President

Tommy Davis, President of the Northern Student Body, led the school toward higher standards and achievements. Though small in stature, Tommy had big ideas, which were many times put into effect at Northern.

Aiming to create understanding and unity feeling, 'Little Caesar', as he was sometimes called by fellow council members, worked continuously for better communications between faculty and students. Under his leadership, the council effected a workable constitution. Tommy was instrumental in organizing the Durham Organization of Student Council, which is to unify the student councils in Durham.

Whenever Tommy was needed he was always there with stimulating ideas and enthusiasm. The students constantly felt the influence of his able leadership.

Junior Marshals

Ten juniors ranking highest academically in their class were chosen last spring to serve as Junior Marshals. They were selected by the faculty to serve at the graduation exercises. To be chosen Junior Marshal was one of the highest honors for a member of the Junior Class.

National Merit Semifinalists

Letters from colleges on the homeroom teacher's desk, pictures for the newspapers, volumes of applications hurriedly submitted to Miss Bordeaux and that long weekend at Carolina were part of the experiences shared by five Northern students this year. On the basis of their scores on the qualifying test given in their junior year, these students were granted the title of Merit Semi-Finalists. After intensive examinations of their scores, school records and personal qualifications, they may receive the distinction of being named Merit Scholars, along with a scholarship to the college of their choice.

Miss D.A.R.

Vicki Gentry, Miss D.A.R., was chosen by the faculty and sponsored by the Davie Chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution. Vicki served Northern in many ways and always displayed qualities of scholarship, character, and citizenship. In the district finals, she was second runner-up.

Vicki Gentry

Senior Class President

The class of '66 bestowed the honor and responsibility of President upon Vernon Tyson. He was well qualified for this duty as he led seniors in winning the Fund Drive, supporting Northern activities and increasing school spirit. Liked by all his classmates and a constant worker, he exemplified a true picture of his class.

Vernon Tyson

National Honor Society President

Alan Teasley was chosen by his fellow students to serve as the leader of the highest scholastic honor program in the school. In addition to his intellectual ability, he possessed leadership, integrity and an essential sense of humor, all of which helped him to fulfill this office with authority and distinction.

Miss Northern High and Sir Northern Knight

This year two outstanding seniors, Hollace Laws and Ronnie Stevens, were chosen Miss Northern High and Sir Northern Knight by the faculty. They were picked on their qualities of scholarship, leadership, and service to the school. Hollace is an active member in GAA, the Service Club, Knights and Ladies, and chairman of the Social Committee. She also attended Girls' State last summer. Ronnie has been active in sports, a Junior Marshal, in the National Honor Society, Knights and Ladies, and treasurer of the Student Body. Both Hollace and Ronnie are assets to Northern High School.

Glenda Cruise, Hollace Laws

Girls' State

Each year the American Legion sponsors Girl's State which is held at UNC-G. This year Glenda Cruise and Hollace Laws represented Northern. During this week, these girls not only studied forms of government, but got a taste of dorm life. Both Hollace and Glenda agree that this week not only added to their knowledge of government, but also to their understanding of people.

Governor's School

For the past three years, students from over the state have met at Salem College to enjoy an entirely new experience. Chosen on the basis of high school records and school recommendations, 400 students spent eight weeks in intensive study in one of ten specialized fields. Roger Williams attended in the summer of 1964 for the purpose of cultivating his fine singing voice. A year later, Sue McDuffie journeyed to Winston-Salem, where she participated in the social science program. Both students felt that the unique opportunity they had was well worth the time and effort.

Cheerleaders selling corsages, students yelling at a pep rally, and Sophomores frantically finishing their castle were representative of the hectic preparations involved in this year's Homecoming. The climax to that last week of activities came at half-time with the crowning of Linda Dossett Queen. After an exciting game, which Northern won, students attended the Sock Hop, adding the final touch to a fine Homecoming.

After two years of struggling as underclassmen, the Juniors had finally achieved their goal of becoming upperclassmen. With this distinction came many challenges. Some members of the Junior Class found themselves taking college aptitude tests, composing poems and mastering French and Spanish. Some lost themselves as they planned and completed the Junior-Senior Prom, spent days in the chemistry laboratory, and re-lived historical events of the nation. As it came to a close, the year was climaxed by the arrival of the long-anticipated class rings. The Junior Class looked to the next year with the promise of more accomplishments, inspiration, and fun.

No one to look down on, but memories to look back on—any Sophomore would agree with this definition of his first year at Northern. It all began with the Orientation Dance, as the Sophomores were entertained, fed, and feted by the upperclassmen. The classwork was vigorous, but fun: the crossing of the Rubicon with Julius Caesar and Mrs. Browning, illustrating vocabulary words, watching the paramecium under the microscope, and becoming conditioned to icy showers in the middle of winter. The Sophomore Class contributed to the life at Northern in many ways. No one could forget the castle, cannon, and balloons at Homecoming, or the excellent participation by Sophomore boys on the varsity football team. They also won the magazine drive, helped initiate the Humanities Club and avidly supported all extracurricular activities at Northern. The Sophomores eagerly waited the day when they would continue in the steps of the upperclassmen, knowing that they could serve Northern in every way, for indeed they had studied and were ready.

Mary, I really can't say how much fun we have had together. You are a very good friend and I hope we can have more fun in the future. Be sweet! Beth

We believe that the primary responsibility of the school is to provide the best possible education in general knowledge and in the various sciences. We recognize that there is a special need in the home, the church, and community organizations that the school supply in character and social conduct, intellectually, physically, emotionally, and so-

STUDENT LIFE

Alumni Return for Homecoming

Alumni Sheila Colclough and Mike Carden sign the register supplied by the Service Club.

One of the few nostalgic moments in the year at Northern was the event called Homecoming. Students dressed in their immaculate best, alumni returned to continue old friendships and see their alma mater. Mr. Poe crowned Linda Dossett as the Queen and the excellent Northern team won another great victory.

Donnie George, Forest Manzingo, and Larry Watson surround a Henderson end after a completed pass.

After the game, everyone enjoyed the laughter, excitement, and music at the sock hop. But the magic moment of the affair was the half time activities; as the band played softly, the players sat quietly on the benches and the cheerleaders rested against the wires; students and guests in the stands felt an emotion of loyalty and devotion for Northern within them.

Linda Dossett gazes into the stands as Mr. Poe crowns her Queen and Kenny Mays looks on.

Mr. Poe watches flower girl Kay Herring and crown bearer David Absalom as they cautiously carry the Queen's possessions.

Extracurricular Activities Fill the After-School Hours

Co-Head Cheerleader Jane Fowler exhibits her athletic prowess as she urges students to follow her example and yell.

During pep rallies, Mr. Poe, Tommy Davis and the coaches advocated school spirit and support of the teams. The best cheering results often came about, however, through the "briber" of candy by the cheerleaders.

Susan Smyre attempts a new rhythm exercise during an after-school GAA session.

During its fourth year of growth, the Science Club attracted and held the interest of many Northerners through excellent programs. A highlight of the year was the E.S.P. lecture and demonstration given by Dr. John Freeman of Duke University.

One of the varied FHA programs was a panel discussion on morality. Mark Proctor, Mildred Coates, Dewey Cates, Marcia Johnson, and Larry Castle took part on the panel.

Northern's first musical production, "Annie Get Your Gun," took many hours of time and effort. Miss Smith and her associates took extra time off to help with individual and group parts.

Kenny Mayes and Gene Berry delivered a spirited rendition of a "Smothers Brothers" routine for the initial meeting of the Humanities Club. With other stimulating student programs and interesting guest speakers, the club prospered during its first year.

Varied Assemblies Highlight Year

General Motors brought its "Previews of Progress" to Northern for an assembly program of particular interest to the scientifically-minded. Tommy George was given first-hand experience in the operation of the gyroscope.

After a chorus assembly, a very informal hootenanny was led by Richard Blalock, Peggy Carter, Jane Fowler, Mike Jacobs, and Gene Berry.

Northern's assemblies ranged from the General Motors sponsored "Previews in Progress" to the long-awaited presentation of the annual.

During the winter the students were entertained with a yuletide program presented by the chorus and band. At a later date, tips on safe driving were given by a guest speaker, Jimmy Dickens, from the Indianapolis 500. Other special assemblies included the presentation of the new constitution and Alma Mater, and "Two Million Heroes", a play presented by the F.T.A.

In the spring the student body enjoyed a visit from the Shakespearean Players. The season was highlighted, however, by three ceremonies which inducted new members into the Service Club, Knights and Ladies and National Honor Society.

Some of the most enjoyable assemblies were those given by the chorus. They presented classical, modern, and sacred music as well as the first performance of the school Alma Mater.

College Day gave Seniors and Juniors a much needed opportunity to talk with representatives of colleges all over North Carolina. Always on hand to guide and introduce were Miss Bordeaux and her assistants, the members of the National Honor Society.

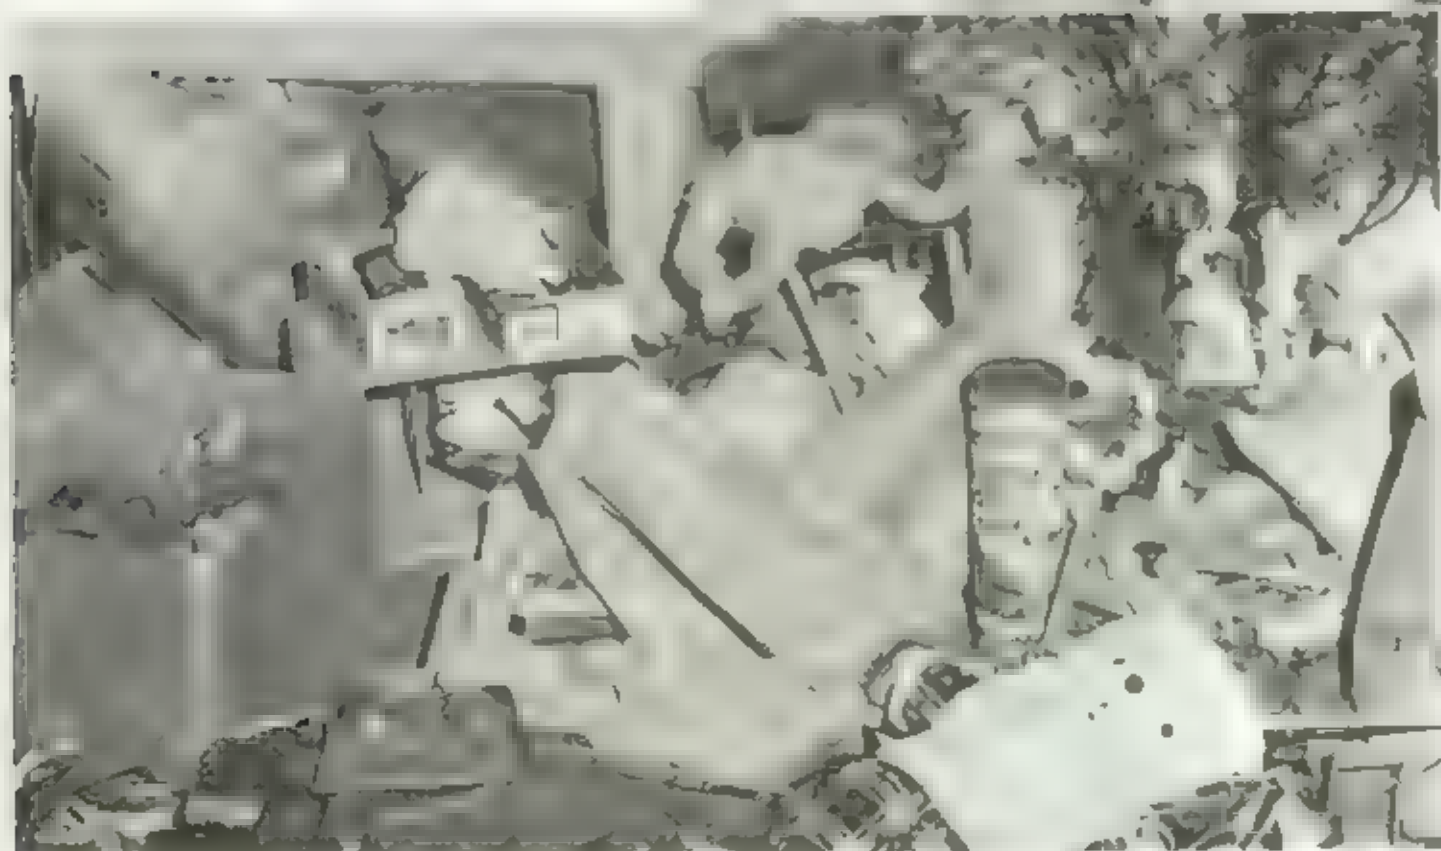

During the five minute break between classes and the time before school, students enjoyed a few exchanges of words with each other and moment for "mental rest."

Often long into the shadowy afternoons Hollace Laws and her Social Committee prepared the colorful mural for display at the Christmas Dance, one of many projects supported by the Student Council.

Northerners Participate

The annual carol singing before school attracted many students and several members of the faculty. Played by Don Mannon, the familiar Christmas music helped put Northerners in a yuletide mood.

Collected by the Service Club and distributed by the Salvation Army, the Christmas toys represented a spirit of giving and friendship prevalent among students at that time of the year.

Northern had its part in the community at Christmas as the marching band led by Drum Major Randy Corn and the majorettes participated in the Durham Christmas Parade.

Community Activities

During the winter, a Northern student was a top contender for the title of Miss Durham, 1967. Susan Poole played the oboe during the competition and was named second runner-up in the pageant.

Students had several occasions to use the voting machines during the school year. Shirley Owen, Tommy Woods, Marilyn Oldham, and Al DuBose wait to vote on the new school constitution and alma mater.

Commencement Marks an End

The evening of graduation was mingled with sadness and expectation for the seniors of Northern. With the words of Senior Class President Vernon Tyson and, later, those of Student Council President Tommy Davis, the year came clearly back into focus. The final reality of the exercises came as the Class of '66 marched to the podium to receive their diplomas from Mr. Poe. It was a night to be remembered by all Northerners, a time of transition, a time to think, a time to hope.

Seniors filed with anticipatory steps onto the field to participate in their final graduation exercises.

In the stands sat proud parents and other family members and friends, who eagerly awaited the moment when "their" Knight or Lady would receive his diploma.

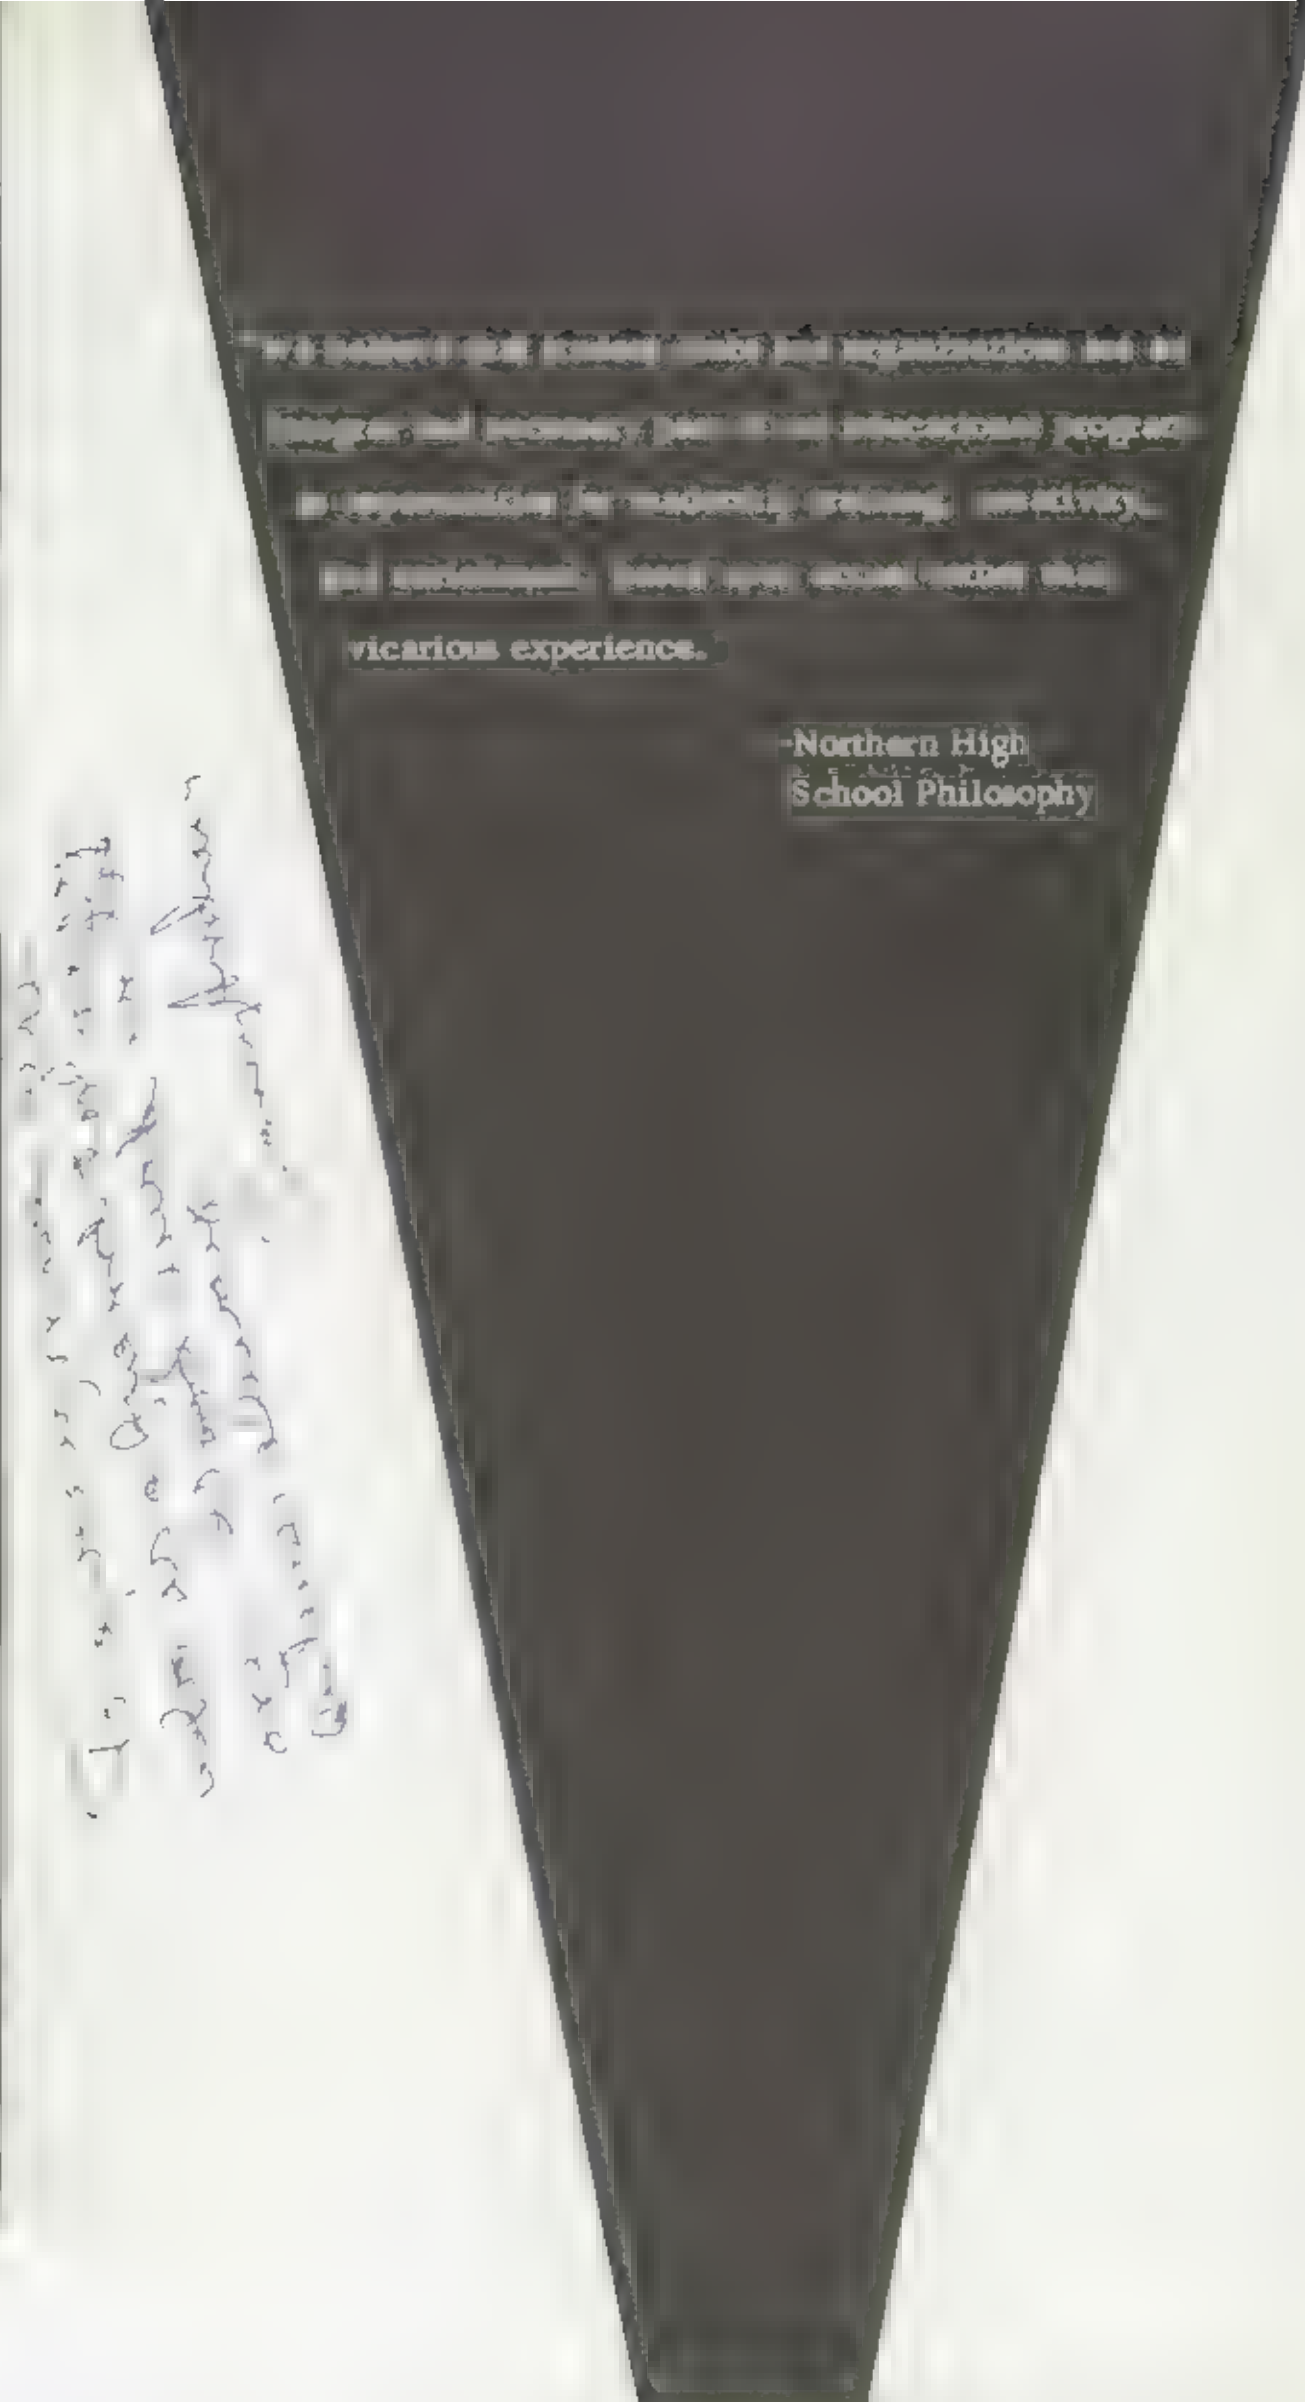

During those final minutes before the reality of graduation, the Senior Class heard a guest speaker and its leaders, the Senior Class President and the President of the Student Body.

Northern High School Alma Mater

To Northern High we do proclaim our loyalty to her noble name,
The Northern Knight of tradition old,
enshrined in blue and gold,
A guiding light on our journey;
A flame of knowledge for all to see.
So as new horizons we explore
We'll sing her praises evermore,
Our love for her will never die,
Our Alma Mater, Northern High.

ORGANIZATIONS

New Constitution Revis

Glenda Crause reads the minutes at a weekly Student Council meeting.

The Student Council of Northern worked constantly on projects and events which would improve the school. This group sponsored the annual fund raising drive and the Christmas dance and in November sent three members to the North Carolina Student Council Congress from which the delegates learned fresh ideas to be used in the coming year. Also, the Council officers joined other student councils in the city to form the Durham organization of Student Councils.

Student Government

During a January assembly program the Student Council presented the new Alma Mater and the revised constitution both of which were voted upon and passed. With the adoption of the constitution came numerous changes in the organization of the student government; the Student Assembly and the Student Council were retained. As stated in the constitution, the Student Council consisted of the officers, the chief deputy, the chairmen of the standing committees, the class officers, the editors of the Polaris and the Crest, and the class representatives.

To compensate for the additional members, different committees related in duties were combined, reducing the number of standing committees. The Financial Committee was formed to aid the treasurer with any fund-raising activities of the Student Government.

Chamber of Deputies

A new addition to the Student Government was the Chamber of Deputies, composed of the Student Government Vice-President and chosen by the President, seven others, with one serving as Chief Deputy to represent the advisory group to the Student Council President. To advise and assist the President of the Student Government, impeach any Student Government member who failed to perform his official duties or who was deemed guilty of misconduct, and fill positions vacated by suspended members were the functions of the Chamber. This group aided the Student Government in performing its duties efficiently.

The student assembly membership remained unchanged and consisted of the homeroom president, class officers, and all the student council members. In years passed the assembly met once a month, but under the new constitution, the assembly would meet only when it was needed. The members of the assembly were to report all its activities to their respective homerooms. The assembly also elected the chairmen of all standing committees in May for the next school year.

Council Inaugurated in New Constitution

The Interclub Council was created to coordinate all club meeting dates and activities and to schedule club fund raising activities. It consisted of one representative from each club and the Vice President of the Student Council, who served as president. Four members, two of which had to be the publication editors, represented this council on the Student Council. Clubs reported their activities regularly to the Council, and each was allowed one vote. Membership for each club was retained by obedience to the charter of the Interclub Council.

Under the direction of John Culp, the '65-'66 Northern band brought honor to the school by winning several trophies and cash awards and by presenting outstanding concerts to the student body. During the year Marching Knights received a trophy for their performance in the Chapel Hill parade and also participated in the Durham, Apex, and Roxboro parades.

They played at half-time for the athletics events at Northern. Among the performances given for the student body were a Christmas program and the annual spring concert. The band sold toothbrushes in the fall and the winter to buy better quality instruments and to pay for bus trips for participation in out-of-town programs.

Other noted activities were a schoolwide candy sale to raise funds for the club treasury, a district rally at Raleigh in the fall and a bicounty rally with Orange in the spring.

Under the motto "Learning to do, doing to learn, learning to live, living to serve," the Future Farmers of America was a vital part of the life of every boy planning to enter the agriculture industry. This year at Northern these students exhibited the many things they had learned at the Durham - Orange - Pearson FFA Federation Contest held at Southern. Coached by Mr. Allen, John Yount placed first in Public Speaking and the Northern team won the Ritual and Parliamentary Procedure.

By keeping a scrapbook, the FBLA'ers were able to keep a record of their activities. The meetings were planned on the first Monday in each month. Plans included many field trips and guest speakers. A tour was given the club members by the Home Security Life Insurance Company and a speaker came from the Southeastern Telephone Company office to tell of vocational careers. In April, a convention was held at the Jack Tar Hotel in Durham.

Throughout the year monthly programs of the FTA were given by teachers and people connected with the various teaching fields. These were followed by discussion and questioning which proved to be beneficial. The event which everyone looked forward to was the trip to the state FTA convention held on the campus of Wake Forest at Winston-Salem. The FTA organization at Northern nominated Sophie Turner for a state office. Prior to the convention in November, weeks were spent busily planning a campaign. Later in the year, the FTA gave a tea to honor teachers. With the aid of Evelyn Browning, president, and Mrs. Craver, sponsor, the club was a source of learning, as well as fun.

Girls' Athletic Association

Mrs. Williams, Sponsor

Intramural sports had an exciting place in the lives of 104 girls this year in the form of the GAA. On Tuesday, and often Monday and Thursday afternoons, these girls met to become fit athletically, to learn to cooperate with others and to acquire the traits of a good sportsman. The list of activities for the GAA included basketball, tennis, volleyball, ping-pong, and relay races. Most of these games were played with thoughts in the direction of Greensboro and the "Playday", where girls from all over the state competed in relays, volleyball, tennis, golf, and bowling.

The highlights of the year were the employer-employee banquet and the participation in all the activities and contests of the Distributive Education Club of America.

Especially exciting programs included a lecture by Dr. John Freeman of the Parapsychology Department of Duke, a tour of the nuclear reactor at State and discussions led by members of the club. The annual Science Fair was a huge success; it reflected exceptional efforts by Northern High students in the field of Science.

Much diligent work and participation in competitive sports have earned for the boys in the Monogram Club their golden "N". These boys have worked exceptionally hard during the year and wear their letters proudly. In addition to their annual candy sale, the members elected to revise the club constitution. In years past, any boy who lettered was eligible for membership. Under the new constitution, the club is open for only the active, participating boys who have lettered.

Much hard work and enthusiasm on the part of the chorus members went into the production of Northern's first musical play. Journeying to Greensboro for the North Carolina Music Educators Conference, a select group displayed its musical ability and talents. The fresh outlook shown by the Chorus created a lasting awareness of music within the student body.

Students Initiate Humanities Club

Sue McDuffie, President; Ronnie Stevens, Vice President; Marilyn Oldham, Secretary-Treasurer.

Sparked by the interest of several students, Northern began its first club devoted to the humanities--social studies, literature, drama, music, and art. The club's desire was to bring some degree of awareness of "the finer things in life" to the student body, and the varied programs served this purpose well. Highlights of the year included dramatic readings by several members, comic impersonations, a "Beethoven concert" by records and a history of dancing.

National Honor Society Conducts College Day

Character, scholarship, leadership, and service are the basis for membership in the National Honor Society. Those juniors and seniors who met these qualifications were inducted into the organization during a candlelight ceremony last spring. The club met under the supervision of Mrs. Mamie Browning once a month on Mondays. The members at these meetings strove to find ways they might best represent their club and encourage scholastic excellence.

ompletes Year's History of Northern

From the turmoil of overflowing adbooks, the chaos of well-erased layout sheets and the piles of photographs arose, somehow, a history of Northern High School for 1965-1966. The staff and advisors were rather awed by the massive undertaking they had begun, but, after the shock of having to sell ads, making the first copy deadlines and choosing the perfect theme, they settled down to vigorous work and a group endeavor. Each school morning was filled with trips to the business office, discussions led by Alan and a few spurts of creativity on the part of budding writers and layout artists. When the final deadline was met and the yearbook was being processed, the staff members waited with some apprehension to view the finished product. With the arrival of the completed annuals and their presentation in the May assembly, the Polaris staff felt satisfaction in knowing they had had a part in the making of history at Northern.

Northern Limits Roxboro to Ten Yards on the Ground

Small in size but large in spirit and action, the Knights rolled to their second straight conference championship. Cross-town rival, Southern, was unable to stop the Northern team which completed over 100 yards rushing to defeat the Rebels 16-7.

Spearheaded by all conference players Cutts, Johnson, Castle, and Mangum, the fighting Knights combined offensive and defensive efforts to gain 240 yards on the ground with 22 first downs while limiting the Rockets to only 10 yards on the ground and a total of 2 first downs.

Rodney Mangum on 5 yard gallops against Orange.

Cutts scampers against Jordan to set up 1st touchdown.

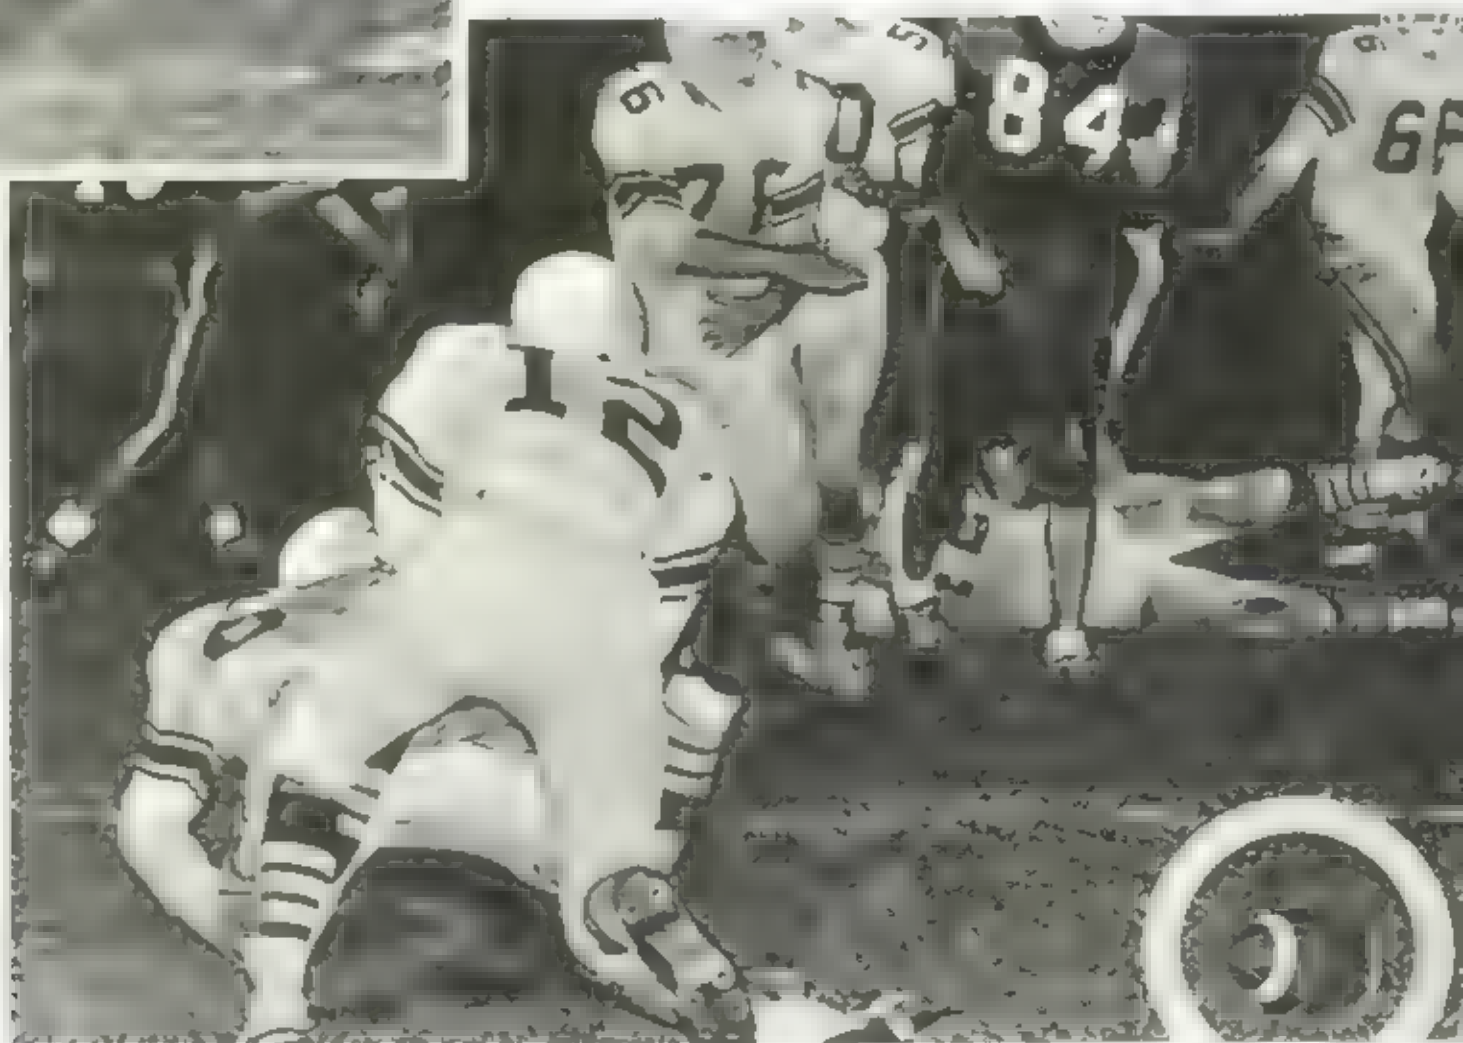

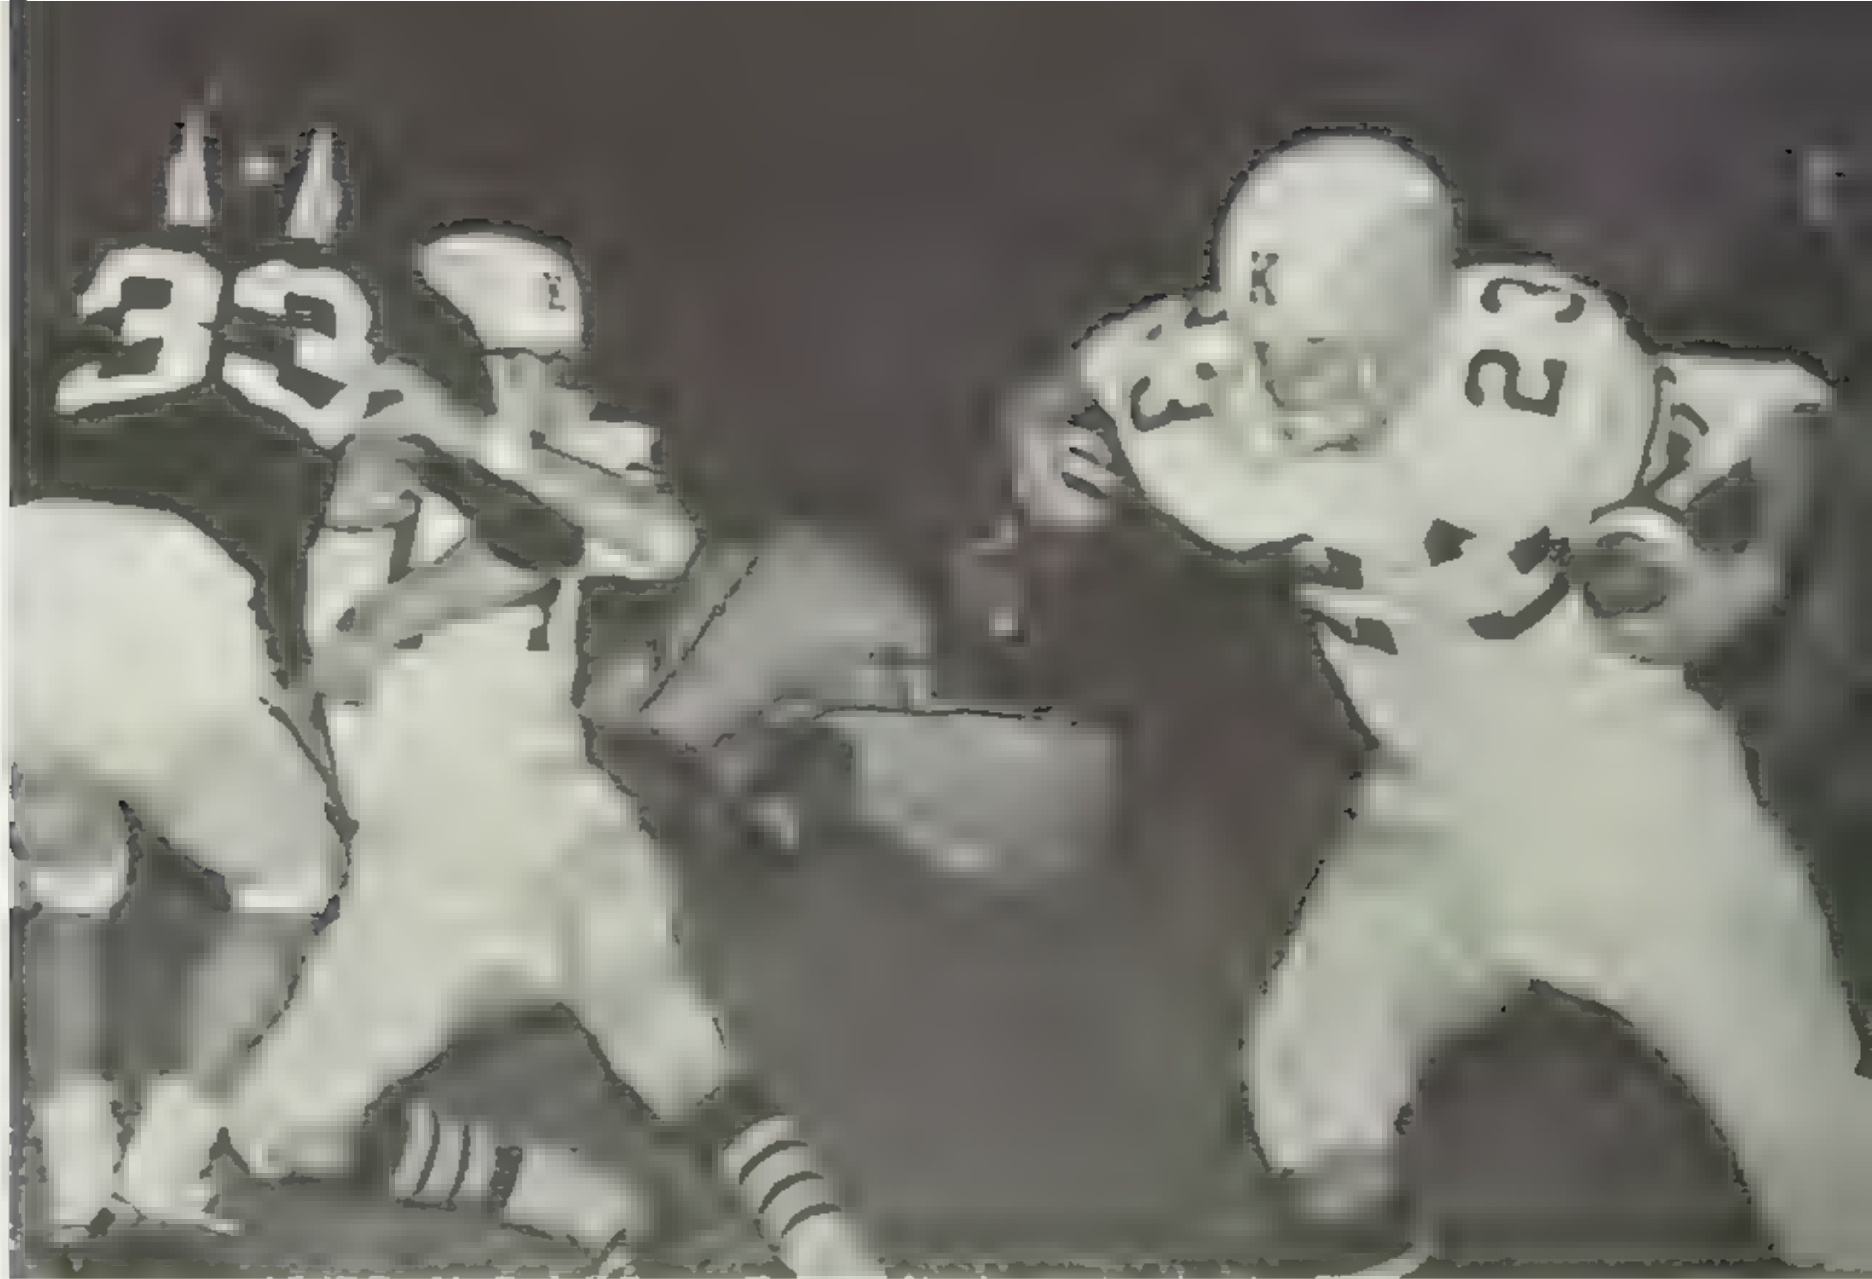

Wayne Taylor closes in on Chapel Hill's Walker.

Knights Total 377 Yards Against Falcons

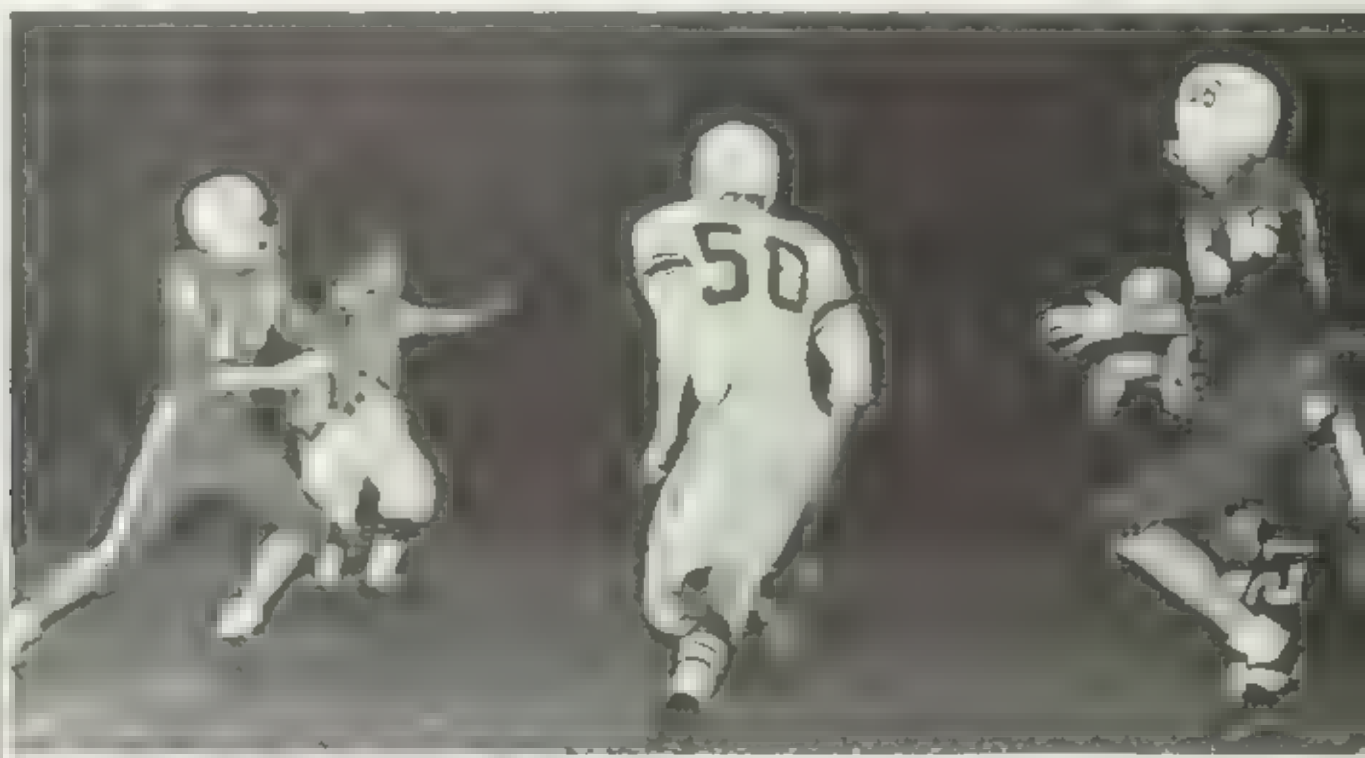

Against the hard-hitting Falcons of Jordan, Northern surpassed all of its other offensive attempts by compiling 377 total yards and winning 35-19. Outstanding individual playing occurred in the Northern-Henderson game as Rodney Mangum ran 43 and 45 yards, the latter for a touchdown. In the Southern game halfback Bobby Cutts threw a downfield pass to Tommy George for a touchdown. He also, against Jordan, scored four of Northern's five touchdowns, one being a 46 yard run and another being a 24 yard pass from sophomore David Rigsbee.

Coaches

Northern welcomed back her three coaches of last year for another fine season of sports. Coach Martin was well-known in our district as he won the Coach of the Year award for his excellent directing of the varsity football team. While Perry Holland instructed the varsity basketball squad and track team, Jim Earp took care of the junior varsity squads and Ernie Martin coached the baseball team. The students of Northern, as well as the athletes, appreciated the time and energy of these men.

Managers

Direction of the various teams was not to be left to faculty members only, as several students spent much of their time calculating statistics, taking care of the uniforms and equipment and helping the players become conditioned for their games. Their excellent efforts paid off handsomely in that Northern athletes continued the school's commendable sport's record.

Football Co-Captains

Johnny Johnson and Bobby Cutts were the co-captains of this year's football team. They exhibited the enthusiasm and drive representative of the team throughout the entire season. Both boys received due honor last fall when they were named to the All Conference Football team.

Scott Colclough attempts a steal from a Webb player.

After a slow start, Northern's basketball team finished the season with an impressive record. Plagued early in the year by injuries and illnesses, the Knights coached by Perry Holland, lost out on a chance as conference leader. However, in a game with Henderson, Northern made up a ten point deficiency at the half to win 69 to 64; Lonnie Weaver, Billy Cutts and Scott Colcough sparked Northern's attack. An impressive victory came in the Northern-Jordan game as the Knights led by Lonnie Weaver with twenty points, won 53 to 46. NHS won both Southern games due to the professional playing of Weaver, Colcough, Cutts and Garrard. With determination and a team effort, the Northern team was able to finish in the top of their conference.

The Junior Varsity Basketball Team enjoyed an impressive season this year at Northern. Coached by Jim Earp, the team boasted many prospects for next year's varsity team.

J. V. Cheerleaders teach students a new cheer.

I've really enjoyed being a cheerleader. I've learned a lot from this and I'll be happy to do it all the way long you want me to. I've enjoyed it a whole lot. This year we will follow you sweetest. I know and always treasure your friendship. I'm in the int. fully deserving smart. Love Rosemary

Inspired by the never tiring pep of these cheerleaders, Northern's junior basketball boys rallied many victories to their honor. Though there were seven girls on the squad, their enthusiasm was unsurpassed at their ball games and pep rallies.

Northerners indulged in one of the oldest sports known to man, when they donned shorts and T-shirts and galloped onto the cinders track. Although not as well publicized as the three main athletic games, track offered Northern students another chance to prove their excellence. The school team won three out of four meets and in the final conference meet, the Knights finished second place to complete a fine season.

Often, after the enthusiasm and excitement of football and basketball, one was tempted to forget the hard working baseball team at Northern. Last year, these boys put forth excellent effort, won outstanding victories and always showed the good sportsmanship which meant much more to the school than the final score. Northern had five players batting over 300 and a good pitching average. Those warm spring afternoons would long be remembered by the team and the students school spirited enough to attend them.

Coach Martin Elected "Coach of the Year"

For his excellent handling of the '65 Football Team, Coach Ernie Martin was voted Coach of the Year by the eight conference coaches. In 1962 he became head football coach and, for the past four seasons, has had a second, third, and two first place teams. During the '65 season, Coach Martin led the Knights to the most victorious season in the school's history.

Coca-Cola Gold Helmet Award

Given by Coca-Cola and voted upon by the Monogram Club, this new award for Most Dedicated Football Player went to Bobby Cutts, Co-Captain of the '65 team. For his personal effort on the field, his determination during training periods and his perseverance to make himself a total team worker, he was deserving of this honor.

Thom McAn Trophy

Johnny Johnson was selected by his teammates as Most Valuable Player for the '65 football season. Well suited for this honor, he was co-captain of the squad, an All Conference Player and member of the All East second team.

All Conference Football Awards

Four boys from Northern were chosen by the conference coaches for the All Conference first team. Seniors Larry Castle, Bobby Cutts, Johnny Johnson, and Junior Rodney Mangum contributed to the success of Northern's team and were deserving of this honor.
